

DISCIPLESHIP

January 5, 2020

Introduction: A disciple in Jesus' day was called a talmid – followers who left their family and wholeheartedly gave themselves over to their teachers. The goal of the rabbi was to make the talmid like him in knowledge, wisdom and ethical behavior. The essence of this relationship was one of trust in every area of living. It was the goal of the talmid to become like his teacher. So much so that a talmid followed so closely to their rabbi that the dust off his feet would land on his feet. Are you following that close to your rabbi?
